

CAPITAL SONS

New Release: Tempest

With over a decade of performances under their belts in and around the Twin Cities rock scene, Capital Sons are proud to announce their fifth release: Tempest. Following the positive critical reception of their full length album Rose-Colored World in 2018, Tempest finds the band at their creative best.

From the rebellious anthem of 'Revolution Road' to the heartfelt and groove-laden 'Rains Came', Capital Sons has refined their sound and created a body of work that shows them continuing to mature musically. The fiery and energetic 'Moderation' finds vocalist/lyricist Karl Obermeyer once again weaving metaphors and jabbing his lyrical knife into current social issues. Drummer Mike Jueneman's lock-step rhythms and lead guitarist Rick Paukert's emotional and atmospheric guitar work on 'Crushed' create the perfect background for Obermeyer's lyrics of a relationship ending. On 'Revolution Road', the band creates the perfect bouncing anthem of rebellion and resistance, and on 'Rains Came' the band taps deep into their soulful side to bring to life the passion of a song written by the band's new bass player, Keith Raney.

Capital Sons continue to prove their relevance and staying power as a guitar-driven rock band with heart, soul and substance on Tempest. Whether you are drawn to this collection of songs because of the lyrical depth or the rhythmic and instrumental stylings, there is something for every listener on this E.P.
